

Working in a Multiage Classroom

With multiage groupings, students cross grade levels to work together & help each other out and teachers go from year-to-year already knowing their students which provides children with multi-year time with a significant adult.

We don't change doctors or dentists every year so it makes no sense to change teachers so frequently.

Teachers wanting to teach in this environment and being able assess if multiage doesn't seem to be working for a specific kid are keys to success.

Parent support & educating them about the program are important, too.
